FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

"My dreams for the year 2000 could unfold incredible opportunities," writes 15-year-old Julia Bergen of Manitoba, a winner in the 1989 Canada Career Week photo-story contest.

Last fall, young people aged 15 to 24 were asked by the Minister of State for Youth to submit a photo and essay about how the world of work is changing and how they hope to adjust.

The winners of the "Snap Your Future on Film" contest were announced today by Marcel Danis, the Minister of State for Youth, Fitness and Amateur Sport.

"I'd like to congratulate the many talented youth from across Canada who sent in their thoughts on tomorrow's workforce," Mr. Danis said.

"They understand that education and training are essential for their future. For example, almost two-thirds of the new jobs created in the next decade will require at least 12 years of education and training," he added.

The national contest winners are Jason Wilson, N.S., age 17; Isabelle Gelderblom, B.C., age 15; and François Cliche, Que., age 23. Each received a return flight, anywhere in Canada, courtesy of Air Canada.

The regional winners are Shannon Gottlieb, Alta., age 20; Tanya Chow, Sask., age 16; Mari-Beth Bernardo, Ont., age 15; Julia Bergen, Man., age 15; and Kim Day, N.B., age 15. They each won a Kodak camera kit, donated by Kodak Canada Inc.

Honourable mentions went to Colleen Switzer, Ont., age 16; Koralee Walker, Ont., age 17; Steven Procyk, Sask., age 21; Susie Maltais, N.B., age 15; Isabell Shoff, Alta., age 18; Kimberley Joseph, Que., age 22; Nadine Roy, N.B., age 15; and Suzanne Desjardins, Que., age 23.

The attached magazine contains copies of the winning entries.
